

I joined Edmund Carr in March 2020 having recently graduated with First Class honours in Accounting and Management from the University of East Anglia. I am now studying towards my final 2 exams of the ACCA qualification.

Working at Edmund Carr has given me a lot of exposure to accountancy in the real world compared to the fictitious scenarios we used to learn through at university. This has helped reinforce the fundamental understanding of accountancy that I already had, alongside enabling me to advance through my studies easier. This is because I am now able to relate the exam content to practical experience that I have gained.

I work in the audit and accounts department where I mainly prepare accounts for various companies and charities, alongside going out on audit. This provides a lot of job variety as most days I will be completing work for a different client.

Jack Guest

ACCA Trainee